FROM THE PRESIDENT

LIZ KISLIK

This will be my last Hakol President's column. Mostly, what I feel is gratitude, with a little amazement mixed in. Amazement, because how could it be possible that almost three years have passed? And gratitude, because thanks to so many wonderful colleagues – professionals and volunteers alike – we have accomplished a lot and survived a lot.

Certainly we are more efficient in many ways; areas of excess and waste have been reduced or eliminated, new areas of growth have been targeted, and we look for (and find) more of these opportunities at every meeting. A few areas of progress:

- Our revised constitution, to be voted at the Congregational Meeting on May 18, brings us up to date from 1980, the last time it was revised (see p. 5 for meeting notice)
- Our mission statement, voted in last year, expresses how we see ourselves and our congregation in the world, and has given us a platform from which to stage other improvements in all our activities (see website)
- Our newly launched Membership Movement brought us the Taste of HERJC and our very successful Family Fridays, where congregants of all ages and stages come together for a lively Kabbalat Shabbat service and a casual, friendly Shabbat dinner
- Our Religious School programs are reinvigorated: we've introduced the enriched Akiva track and are working on a new teen education program
- We're getting more and better coverage in local papers and listings
- We've been awarded a UJA grant for Board development to continue improving our leadership and our work.

The truth is that I did not cause any of these things to happen. They were ready to happen, just waiting for an engaged, mutable group of people to show up, brainstorm, experiment, evaluate, commit, revise, explore – as Rabbi Yishmael taught centuries ago: “Never say to your colleagues: ‘You must adopt my view’: the prerogative is theirs, not yours to coerce.”

Before I took office, I wrote a personal strategy statement that I hoped would guide me through the presidency. I wanted to ensure that HERJC would provide a rewarding Conservative Egalitarian Jewish experience for its members, but recognized that I had no control over what others' experience would be. I could try, though, to set the agenda for overall activity and to motivate others to create conditions that would be more engaging and therefore more rewarding to congregants.

I wanted several outcomes, including better informed, more thoughtful, more balanced decision making; clear, consistent, and ongoing outreach to the larger Congregation, employees, and other constituents, and the ability to articulate who we

FROM THE RABBI'S STUDY

RABBI ANDREW WARMFLASH

Shavuot, the major Jewish holiday which comes at the end of May celebrates the moment when God gave us the Torah at Mt. Sinai and our people made a lasting and irrevocable covenant to accept God as our sovereign and to live our lives according to Torah. It is the perfect time to reaffirm our commitment to living joyous and vibrant Jewish lives.

The rabbinic imagination offers us two conflicting explanations as to how our people came to accept the Torah. According to one midrash, we took it because we had no choice: God held Mt. Sinai over our heads and said "Take My Torah or this will be your grave."

The other midrash portrays our acceptance as a voluntary act of love for God who brought us out of Egypt. In this version of events, God went to all the other nations on earth offering the Torah to each of them in turn. Each one asked what obligations this gift would entail and each, for its own reasons, rejected it. Finally, God came to Israel who, having already experienced God's goodness, asked no questions but eagerly embraced the Torah, saying: "Naaseh venishma – we will do whatever You ask."

These two midrashim reflect two different paths by which Jewish people have traditionally come to affirm our commitment to Judaism. The first one describes an identification which comes al korhaynu – against our will and is symbolic of times in our history when some of our people have been forced to identify with Judaism because anti-Semites gave them no choice.

The second midrash indicates a different path and one that is more relevant to our lives in America today. "Naaseh venishma" implies an acceptance of Judaism which isn't based on the terms of the contract but rather comes about as a consequence of positive past experiences.

The implications of this midrash for Jewish parents and grandparents could not be more clear: If we want our children and grandchildren to identify as Jews, we cannot rely on outside forces to compel them to be Jewish. We have to provide them with the positive Jewish experiences that will help them see that being Jewish is special and wonderful, something they should embrace with gratitude and joy.

are, what the institution represents, and what it means to be a HERJC member. You have to laugh a bit – I do it a lot – but I actually promised myself that I wouldn't take on more than three discrete tasks at a time, and that I would only take on a fourth when a previous task had been completed, delegated, or otherwise removed from my list.

The words of Rabbi Tarfon bring me comfort: "You are not obliged to complete the task; neither are you free to refrain from it." OK, very little is complete. The work goes on and on. The lessons, though, have been many and valuable.

I've learned how truly generous so many members of this congregation are – with their time, money, ideas, emotional support. More people have helped in ways large and small than you can ever know or would ever believe. Sometimes, just a kind word has been generosity enough. And on the tough days, I found that it was always better to be entertained (by human foibles, crotchets, and eccentricities) than drained (by same).

A soft answer turneth away wrath 95% of the time, but for the other 5%, you just have to stand there and take it. People care about what they care about and they also expect that they will find whatever it is at the place they care about. Logic has almost no connection to people's expectations, reactions, or feelings, so even when I couldn't understand, couldn't reconcile, our Sages gave me strength. Y'hoshua ben P'rahyah taught that "when you assess people, tip the balance in their favor." And Hillel said, "Don't judge your fellows till you stand in their situation."

“IT HAPPENS FROM TIME TO TIME THAT THOSE WHO SING OUT WITH THE GREATEST ZEST DON'T NECESSARILY HAVE THE GREATEST VOICES. IT HELPS ME TO REMEMBER THAT THEY ARE NOT CONTRIBUTING TUNEFULNESS – THEY ARE CONTRIBUTING ZEST!”

So I also learned to ask myself why such a smart/nice/good/committed person would ever do such a dumb/unkind/bad/irresponsible thing. Then it was easier to find a rationale or premise different from my own, one in which the other person, with the best of intentions, believed something I didn't or saw something I didn't see. It happens from time to time that those who sing out with the greatest zest don't necessarily have the greatest voices. It helps me to remember that they are not contributing tunefulness – they are contributing zest!

And now we enter the next stage. Dan Gerstman (see p. 5 for the Nominating Slate) is assembling a wonderful new team of volunteers, and our staff is stepping up more than ever. We will all have to do more with less – less funding, less time, perhaps even fewer people working. But we will also get to do more with more – more heart, more ideas, more hope for improvement. When everything is changing, there's more and better chance for change.

A few of the things you can look forward to with anticipation: new and significant fundraising to stabilize HERJC's finances and give us a solid basis for growth and development – even in an uncertain future; new community outreach initiatives under the banner of "HERJC Cares"; and a renewed focus on bringing old members back into the fold.

Come July, I'll return to my old seat in the back row of the sanctuary and the back table of the Board room. But my perspective will have changed significantly. My heartfelt thanks and affection to all of you for the opportunity to learn and grow as a part of the HERJC community. Shalom, Chaverim – and see you in shul!

NOTES FROM THE CANTOR

CANTOR STACY SOKOL

Many of us only know of one Megillah which is read during our joyous holiday of Purim. That Megillah, Megillat Ester is a beautiful story of how the Jewish people were redeemed by our heroin Queen Ester. However, there are four more megillot that are read every year. Megillat Ester has its own Trope System. However some of the story borrows some tunes found in Eicha, Lamentations. Eicha is recited in the summertime, it expresses itself through a mournful sounding Trope System on Tisha B'Av. Tisha B'Av commemorates the destruction of both our Temples in Jerusalem.

Shir Hashirim (Song of Songs) recited on Passover, Ruth recited on Shavuot and Kohelet (Ecclesiastes) recited on Sukkot, all have the same Trope System. I invite those of you who are skilled in reading Hebrew to approach me about learning these Trope Systems and participating in our services throughout the year. I am available to meet you and teach you our beautiful heritage of chanting for the Five Books of Moses (Torah), The Prophets (Haftarah), and our Five Megillot. Please do not hesitate to call and set up an appointment 599-7432.

Please join us on June 4 and 7, 2009 as our synagogue will be putting on The Fiddler on The Roof. The cast is amazing and this is something not to be missed. Please support our efforts and hard work as we take you back in time to our little shtetl (town) of Anetevka and blow you away with Shalom Alecheim's tale of Tevye the poor Milk Man. This show will be phenomenal, I promise you.

קדיש יתום Kaddish Yatom

Mourners Kaddish. The mourner's Kaddish is one of the best known and most profound prayers in our liturgy. It is traditionally recited daily by adult children for 11 months after the death of a parent and for a month by all other members of the deceased's immediate family. After the first year, Kaddish is said annually on the Yahrzeit, the anniversary of the death on the Hebrew calendar. It is also said as part of the Yizkor service on Yom Kippur and festivals.

Kaddish binds the generations together in love. It responds to death by sanctifying God and embracing life. Because of its great sanctity, Kaddish requires that a minyan be present when it is said. This is one reason why our synagogue maintains a daily minyan, both morning and evening.

According to an ancient mystical tradition, the recitation of Kaddish aids the soul of the deceased in its ascent to its final resting place in Paradise. It is also a powerful source of comfort and consolation for mourners, providing them with a daily opportunity to stand in the presence of community and pay tribute to the memory of a dear loved one.

It is traditional to erect a monument on a person's grave after they die. While this is certainly necessary and meaningful, it is important to remember that the true monument to a person's life can be found in the lives of the people they leave behind when they die. There is no greater tribute that we can pay to someone we love who has left this world, than to stand daily as a flesh and blood monument to their memory, honoring them by reciting ancient words of holiness and sanctification.

—Rabbi Andrew Warmflash

HOLIDAYS

LAG B'OMER

Lag B'Omer is the 33rd day of the Omer (the 49 days counted between Pesach and Shavuot), which this year falls on May 12. Having no calendar, the Jews of ancient times counted the days from the second day of Pesach (the start of the cereal harvest) until Shavuot, when they would gather the harvest. Lag B'Omer is a solitary joyous day in this solemn period of the Jewish calendar, when so much Jewish persecution is remembered. On this day, we remember the miraculous cessation of a terrible plague that raged among Rabbi Akiva's students. The yahrzeit of Simeon Bar Yohai, a great Jewish scholar who hid in a cave, living off carob and spring water when the Romans forbade the study of Torah, is also commemorated. When his students came to visit him, they disguised themselves as hunters with bows and arrows, hence the bows and arrows children play with on Lag B'Omer today. We also remember the amazing determination and bravery of Bar Kochba and his small, ill-equipped Jewish army in withstanding the mighty Roman army for three long years.

In most countries, Lag B'Omer is celebrated with picnics, field days and games of skill. In Israel, many Jews visit the grave of Rabbi Simeon Bar Yohai in Meron. Bonfires are lit and there is singing and dancing throughout the night because Rabbi Bar Yohai requested that his followers celebrate, rather than mourn, his death. The bonfires also remind us that the torch of Jewish learning continues to burn, despite cruel persecutions by tyrants throughout the centuries.

SHAVUOT

Shavuot means “weeks” and it falls exactly seven weeks after the second day of Pesach, on the 6th and 7th of Sivan.

Shavuot is a three-fold celebration which commemorates the giving of the Torah on Mount Sinai, the wheat harvest and the ripening of the first fruits in Israel. The Rabbis of old declared Shavuot to be the most pleasant of all Jewish holidays. In ancient times, the cereal harvest began on the second day of Passover with the ripening of barley. On this day, an omer or measure of grain was brought to the Temple as a thanksgiving to God. The 49 days were counted until Shavuot and this period is still called Sefirat HaOmer or the counting of the Omer. A special prayer was and still is said at the end of the Evening Service during this period. In a way, it fits in very well with Passover and brings that great festival to a glorious conclusion. On Passover the Jews were freed from slavery and on Shavuot the freed slaves were made into free men by the Ten Commandments.

SHAVUOT CUSTOMS: In Israel, children usually march through the streets with baskets of fruit and beautifully decorated floats, in commemoration of the ancient festival processions carrying thanksgiving offerings to the Temple. Synagogues and homes in countries all over the world are decorated with plants, flowers and greenery.

On the first night of Shavuot, the Evening Service is delayed until absolute nightfall to be sure the 49 days of counting are completed. Many observant Jews spend the whole first night studying Torah. During the day, the Scroll of Ruth is read at Services because this story describes harvesting in Palestine. On the second day, Yizkor is said. It is also customary to eat dairy foods, symbolizing the fact that the Torah is likened to “milk and honey.”

What Do You Do With The Leftovers?

On Shabbat Pesach, Rehama Deffallah, founder of the Darfur People's Association of New York, who fled Darfur in 1997 due to the policy of silent genocide, spoke to our congregation. This past winter, he traveled to Sudan to help his 93 year old father and 90 year old mother. Their village was razed to the ground by government warplanes. They and others who were too old, too sick or too young to make the 80 mile walk to the safety of the refugee camps in Chad, fled to the nearby mountains on the Sudanese side of the Sudanese-Chad border. They sleep during the day and at night forage for the scant food and water that is available. Now, Mr. Deffallah said, the government is deploying even more warplanes to kill these left over civilians who somehow have survived. Since 2003, more than half a million persons have been killed, up to two and a half million internally displaced, 300,000 forced to cross the border to Chad, 7,000 villages completely destroyed and at least 8,000 women raped. Most recently Sudan expelled thirteen foreign aid groups and has done nothing to fill the gaps, leaving 4.7 million people at risk.

Supermarket Sweeps Brings Sweet Success

Just before Passover, 24 USY'ers and Pre-USY'ers participated in a great game at the Stop and Shop on Long Beach Road in Oceanside. Each team tried to buy the most non-perishable kosher food (including at least one Passover item) for a total of $20. A tremendous time was had by all and HERJC Youth made a huge food donation to the food pantry in Far Rockaway. The balance of the money collected was donated to a local homeless shelter. A huge thank you goes out to Oceanside's Stop and Shop, who not only gave us total access to the store but also donated a $25 gift card which made our food collection that much bigger!

SISTERHOOD NEWS

NANCY LEVITT

My first year as Sisterhood president is almost over and it has been a wonderful whirlwind of events and programs. We all enjoyed the best ever Sisterhood Shabbat. The wine tasting was a huge success and delicious wines graced our Passover tables thanks to Peninsula Wines and Liquor. We learned to crochet and we are very well read. We have new members at our book group and the discussion couldn't be better so why don't you give it a try?

We are still anticipating two big events:

- Cabaret Night – See page 13.
- Maggie Anton – See box below.

I want to take this opportunity to thank everyone who helped this past year. It's thanks to all your dedication and hard work that Sisterhood is able to do so much.

Sisterhood Simcha Sponsors

- Nancy and Paul Levitt in honor of their daughter, Julie, making Dean's List and being inducted into the Honor Society at Ithaca College.

NURSERY SCHOOL

CHERYL KARP

School is almost over, and I have decided that since all of you mean so much to me, I would like to give you a gift. However, after months of searching for something special, I realized that no mere trinket or card could truly reflect the feelings of an early childhood director's grateful heart.

When school started in September, you gave me the gift of your trust, believing that I would teach your child, and you reserved respect for me as a director. I added to that my constant and fervent prayers that you would be objective and fair, and allow me the opportunity to set limitations while offering your child a chance to learn self-control and soar a bit in the process. I have tried to make our school a safe haven for your child. I pray for your health and happiness and your ability to be supplied with the tools necessary to succeed in your task as a parent, teacher and educator. You have given me your time as often as you could, and supported all my endeavors. Occasionally, I even offered you a challenge when I spoke my mind, sometimes standing firm, sometimes backing down with a renewed assurance with a "wait and see" attitude.

And now as your child returns to your side for the summer, or leaves our school to go on to the next step, the gift I humbly give to you is found deep within my heart...I give to you my most profound thanks.

Wishing all of my families a wonderful summer. I look forward to seeing you in September.

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL

DAVID WOOLFE

My, that went fast! It seems like only yesterday we were beginning the school year and preparing for the High Holidays; that our Alef and Bet students were celebrating their Kabbalat HaSiddur ceremony; that our Akiva students were chanting Torah on our bimah; that our Hay students and their families were making their yads with our incredible Yad Meister, Neil Meixler, and his fabulous Yad Squad. Family projects, classroom seders...it all seems to zip by so quickly.

The end of the year seems to invite reflection on the passage of time. I know that, as a parent, it is inconceivable to me that my little boys are now men of 25 and 21 years! Where did the years go? All of their joys and challenges have just flown by.

Bob Dylan sang that, "Time is a jet plane; it moves too fast." Certainly, it often seems so. Of course, that is one of the reasons that we have ritual and ceremony – to slow down time; to make us aware of the significance of what is happening now, when it is happening. Blessings accomplish the same thing. They make us aware of the world around us. When we are aware, events seem not to fly by quite so frighteningly.

As the Religious School prepares for another Vav Class Graduation ceremony, it is good to keep in mind that graduation not only gives us an opportunity to ask, "Where has the time gone?" but also to stop and recognize just how remarkable these young adults have become; to mark who they are now.

The Nursery School and Religious School would like to thank TERRI AND STEVEN GOLD for their generous donation of Gold's Horseradish for all of our school seders. No one else could ever make the "bitter" so sweet!

Time has always been fundamental to who we are as Jews. After all, our God is a God of time, a God who is the same at the beginning of time as at the end of time. And, for us, the past is never simply prelude. It plays itself out over and over. The past happens in our time. We are slaves in Egypt. We are redeemed. We stand at Sinai as Moses returns with God's commandments. We are part of the incredible flow of tradition. When we feel that way, time doesn't pass us by so much as embrace us and lift us up.

Have a happy and healthy summer. See you next year when we "start it up" again!

YOUTH PROGRAMS

TODD HAUSMAN

Another great year is coming to a close with HERJC Youth Group clocking into the #1 spot on the charts! Our USY'ers had loads of fun and learned a lot at such events as Israeli Color War, Israel Spa day, and Purim Carnival. They participated in many social action programs which directly impacted the surrounding communities, such as making blankets and delivering them to Hoffman Manor, playing Super Market Sweeps at Stop and Shop and donating the food to the hungry and money to a homeless shelter. USY also experienced the joy of creating tzedakah by running a car wash and selling Tikun Olam t-shirts. Our Youth Group kids also had a super time while doing some religious education programs such as planting pots for Tu B'Shevat, helping with Yellow Candle deliveries for Yom HaShoah, sponsoring the synagogue's Yom HaShoah program, and making Purim and the Megillah reading awesome by coming up with the theme and then writing and performing a Purim spiel. Other fabulous activities included S-Cubed (soccer, socks and sundaes), Iron Chef and Make Your Own Pizza. One of the most popular events was our all-nighters! A great time was had by all.

On a divisional and regional level, the year started with in the summer with Encampment, then moved onto the Kickoff Dance, Chazak Divisional Kinnus at HERJC, International Convention in Washington, DC, Mid-winter Kallah, Spring Kinnus, Regional Convention and will end on a high note at the Israel Day Parade in Manhattan!

“ USY ALSO EXPERIENCED THE JOY OF CREATING TZEDAKAH BY RUNNING A CAR WASH AND SELLING TIKUN OLAM T-SHIRTS. ”

Kadima, Pizza Plus, and our seventh graders participated in a Ben and Jerry's ice cream seder, lots of sports and arts and crafts events among many other great programs and trips to Owl Art Gallery, Fun Station, and will be going to Ultimate GaGa.

Encampment applications are in. Encampment is an eight day sleep away camp held at Camp Ramah in the Berkshires. As a kid, I went to two Kadima and four USY encampments and then returned to camp as staff. I was a bunk counselor, then moved to Boys Head Counselor and as of last year was named Kadima Encampment Director. If you are between sixth and twelve grades and have any questions about this great program, please feel free to contact me.
