Tell me how you pray (or don't) and I can tell who you are. The evolution of Jewish legislation through the Siddur pages.

Every congregation in different times and places had their unique Siddur. By studying the Siddur of a specific community we can learn a lot about that specific group of people and their set of values, beliefs, fears and aspirations. The constant evolution of Jewish liturgy is a fascinating tool to understand the constant evolution and survival of the Jewish People itself.
